Births Deaths and Marriages Registration Act 1995 (BDMR Act)

Registry of Births Deaths & Marriages

Eligibility

To apply to add a parent to a birth registration, the birth must be registered in NSW.

Option 1: Add a father

To add a father to the birth registration:

- The Registry can add a biological father to the birth registration when both biological parents apply, or in some circumstances when one parent applies.
- The Registry may require a Parentage Testing DNA report or a court order to confirm paternity.
- The Registry can also add a father to the birth registration for a child born as a result of a fertilisation procedure, if the parents were in a married or de facto relationship at the time of the procedure, and the father gave consent.

Option 2: Add a mother as the other parent

To add a mother to the birth registration for a child born as a result of a fertilisation procedure:

- There must have been a married or de facto relationship at the time of the procedure, and
- The other woman must have consented to the procedure.

Your right to privacy

Privacy

The NSW Registry of Birth Deaths & Marriages administers the Births Deaths and Marriages Registration Act 1995 (NSW). The information required on this form is collected under the provisions of this Act and forms the basis for adding a parent's details to a birth registration. Adding a parent's details to a birth registration is part of the civil records of NSW and is a permanent historical record. However, these records are not available for public scrutiny.

Information held by the Registry may be used for statistical purposes and by law enforcement agencies, as well as other uses provided for by law. Such access for approved purposes may be granted to other registries and certain government and authorised non-government agencies.

The Registry requires proof of your identity to protect your privacy. We collect this information in line with the Privacy and Personal Information Protection Act 1998, to determine your eligibility to add a parent's details to a birth registration, to obtain the requested certificate and to prevent fraud.

All documents are scanned and retained in the Registry's system and all copies are destroyed.

For more information about the privacy and disclosure of adding a parent's details to a birth registration data or how you may access information after it has been collected by the Registry, please visit our website.

Disclosure of information

When you complete this application form, understand that you have consented to the release of information provided by you to those agencies that may be able to validate that information in support of your application. It is extremely important that all your identity documents are accurate and reflect your correct identity information.

Documents provided as proof of identity may have their authenticity verified through the online National Document Verification Service (DVS).
