George Proudman Fellowship

2021 | Guidelines

Fostering the passion and skills of heritage stonemasonry in Australia.

The George Proudman Fellowship provides opportunities for talented stonemasons to travel overseas to gain experience that may not be readily available in Australia. The Fellowship aims to provide individual skills enhancement for the benefit of heritage stonemasonry in Australia.

Remembering George Proudman

The Fellowship was established to honour the legacy of the late George Proudman, who up until his death in 2000 was a passionate educator and advocate for the stonework conservation of culturally significant public buildings. As Master Mason of NSW Public Works in the 1970's and 1980's, George was instrumental in revitalising the craft of stonemasonry in NSW. George was pivotal in establishing the State Government's stone yard, re-establishing the TAFE Stonemasonry course and in sourcing appropriate replacement stone. These resources combined provided the foundations for the NSW Minister's Stonework Program. The Program is unique to Australia and provides a specialist team of skilled heritage stonemasons and architects to care for all the State agencies' heritage stonework buildings, structures and monuments assets. The George Proudman Fellowship aims to keep George's vision alive and is seeking candidates who are interested in continuing that legacy.

What are the focus areas of the Fellowship?

The Fellowship provides an opportunity to travel overseas and undertake applied research. Activities of the Fellowship are not prescribed and applicants are required to provide a proposal that will enhance, promote and improve traditional stonemasonry skills in Australia. Applied research involves the investigation of problems to develop practical solutions. Candidates are encouraged to identify where there may be a skills gap in Australia and propose activities to address those identified. Examples of applied research include approaches to stone cleaning, mortar repair options or other aspects related to heritage stonemasonry.

Who can apply?

Trade qualified stonemasons working in NSW, who are citizens or permanent residents of Australia and with experience in traditional masonry works.
