Planning for Care

In Mental Health Drug and Alcohol a range of tools are used to guide treatment. These tools support consumer and carer partnerships with clinicians.

Care Plans are usually completed in partnership with you and the Wattlegrove staff and sometimes your family or carer. The care plan sets out goals of treatment and identifies supports.

A Wellness Plan is optional, but may be helpful for you to lead your own care, particularly in terms of symptom management and crisis planning.

Advanced Care Planning is thinking and talking about your values and the type of health care you would like to receive if you become seriously ill. There is no particular form for this.

More information on advanced care planning can be found at <https://www.health.nsw.gov.au/patients/acp> or you can ask staff for more information.

Advanced Care Directive is the result of advanced care planning and is the written record of your preferences and instructions about future medical treatment. An advanced care directive will only be used if you do not have capacity to decide for yourself or to communicate your wishes.

How to Escalate Your Concerns

If you are worried about a change in your condition and would like a second opinion, you can escalate your concerns through the REACH process. Call 02 6369 7723

Are you worried?

If you think someone is getting sicker and no one seems to be noticing, follow these steps

- 1 Tell the nurse or doctor your worries.
- 2 If they do not help you, ask the nurse in charge for a clinical review. This is when a nurse or doctor has to come to check you or the condition of the person you care for. This should happen within 30 minutes.
- 3 If you are still worried, make a R.E.A.C.H. call to the emergency team. You can use the bedside phone or ask for a ward phone. Your nurse will show you which ward phone to use or can help you make the call.

Your R.E.A.C.H number is:

02 6369 7723

Remember: Speak to your nurse or doctor first. They may be able to help with your worries.

Discharge Planning

When you are well enough to leave Wattlegrove, the staff will talk to you about leaving, often called discharge planning.

Discharge planning includes referrals and plans put in place to support your care after leaving an inpatient unit or the service. Discharge planning should also include families and carers.

When you leave Wattlegrove, you should receive discharge papers which can be called a discharge or transfer summary.

It is a good idea to take these papers to your next GP appointment. Information that should be included on the discharge or transfer summary is:

- Your name and current contact details
- Date of discharge
- Current medication/s
- Carer's name and contact details
- Follow up health care arrangements or details of support services such as; community mental health drug and alcohol service contact and appointment details
- Your GP's phone number and appointment details

Personal Safety

We have a responsibility to provide a safe and therapeutic environment for everyone. If at any time, you do not feel safe, please speak with a staff member. We can explore what will help you to feel safe, and what we can do to support you with this.

You are expected to be polite and tolerant of everyone else in the unit, and to respect their belongings, boundaries and illness just as they are to respect yours.

Verbal aggression, physical aggression and sexual harassment or any other antisocial behaviour will not be tolerated under any circumstances. Aggressive or intimidating behaviour may result in charges being laid. This includes damage to other people's personal property as well as hospital property.

Respect others' rights to privacy. Do not enter other people's bedrooms or touch other people's belongings. Please tell staff immediately if you have problems with anyone interfering with your rights and/or personal property.

Protecting Your Privacy

When we provide health care, we collect information about you and your health.

Privacy laws allow doctors, nurses and other staff involved in your care to access your information.

This includes staff who treat you in other hospitals and facilities.

All staff must comply with strict rules. These are set out in NSW privacy laws.

These services complement public Mental Health Services (hospital and community) and enhance pathways to care for culturally and linguistically diverse communities.

A culturally safe service can strengthen working relationships with Aboriginal people.

What is the Mental Health Act 2007 (NSW)?

The Mental Health Act 2007 (NSW) is legislation that governs the way care and treatment is provided to people who experience a mental illness in both inpatient and community mental health settings.

It aims to protect your rights while ensuring you have access to appropriate care. The planned care should place as little restriction on your rights as possible.

The Mental Health Act 2007 (NSW) sets out that every effort that is reasonably practicable should be made to involve you and your family and carers in the development of treatment plans and recovery plans and to consider their views and expressed wishes in that development.

Receiving Voluntary or Involuntary Treatment?

Most people can get support from community mental health services or inpatient mental health services voluntarily. Sometimes, you may need to have treatment in an inpatient unit or community mental health setting involuntarily even if you don't want to. If you have any questions or are not sure if you are being treated as a voluntary or involuntary patient please speak to the staff.

Statement of Rights

You will be given a statement of rights if you are admitted as a voluntary or involuntary inpatient. Please ask staff if you have not received your copy or if you have any questions about this document.

Mental Health Review Tribunal

The Tribunal is an independent body made up of a community member, a psychiatrist and a lawyer who make and review orders about the treatment and care of people with a mental illness.

Tribunal hearings are usually held via video conference. You will have an opportunity to give your perspective and your carer or other family member also have the opportunity to tell the Tribunal how they feel about the proposed order.

Involuntary Patient Orders

An involuntary stay in a mental health facility is determined by the Tribunal and includes the maximum amount of time you can be held as an involuntary patient.

The Tribunal must consider whether you are:

- suffering from a mental illness (as defined by the Act); and
- at risk of serious harm to yourself or others.

The Tribunal will:

- take into account your continuing condition, including any likely deterioration; and
- consider whether care of a less restrictive kind is appropriate and reasonably available to you

For more information visit www.mhrt.nsw.gov.au/the-tribunal

The Mental Health Act and Carers

The Mental Health Act 2007 (NSW) recognises the important role of carers in the lives of people living with mental health conditions. The Act recognises two types of carers; designated carers and principal care providers. Under the Act, staff will ask you to nominate your 'designated carer' and/ or 'principal care provider'.

Designated Carer

You can nominate up to two designated carers. If you want a particular person to be told about aspects of your care and treatment including having access to confidential information about you, then you should nominate that person as your designated carer.

If you do not choose a designated carer, the treating team will choose a designated carer for you from your family or friends.

If you do not want a particular person or certain people told about your care, then you can 'exclude' them. You should make sure the hospital has this in writing.

Principal Care Provider

A Principal Care Provider is the person primarily responsible for providing day to day support and care for you. A person cannot be the Principal Care Provider if you have specifically excluded them from being given information.

For more information about designated carers and principal care providers please go to <https://mhrm.mhcc.org.au/>

Guardians and Advocacy

What is a Guardian?

A Guardian can make decisions about finances, housing and health and this can be someone you know or the public guardian. The Guardian and Administration Board decides if a guardian needs to be appointed for you.

People who are guardians can access support from the Private Guardian Support Unit on 1800 451 510

Public Guardian

The Public Guardian is only appointed as guardian as a last option, for example, where an individual is unavailable, unsuitable or unwilling to be appointed or, if the willing parties are in conflict about the needs and interests of the protected person.

The Public Guardian can provide advocacy, health and welfare decisions for people under guardianship.

For more information visit <https://www.tag.nsw.gov.au>

Official Visitors

Official Visitors are appointed by the NSW Minister for Mental Health to visit people in mental health inpatient facilities in NSW. They can provide advocacy and support during an inpatient stay.

Official Visitors are independent from the health system.

They aim to safeguard standards of treatment and care, and advocate for the rights and dignity of people being treated under the NSW Mental Health Act 2007.

You can speak to an Official Visitor during their next visit or by phoning 1800 208 218 between 9am and 5pm Monday to Friday.
